BCC Space and Astronomy Series wins grant from Humanities Council

COCOA — Brevard Community College was recently awarded a $1,482 grant from the Florida Humanities Council, part of the National Endowment for the Humanities.

The grant, which the college applied for in February, will pay for two speakers for the BCC Space and Astronomy Lecture Series.

The objective of the grant is to offer two free lectures that help educate the audience about the moon and Mars exploration, as well as the impact of John F. Kennedy on the development of the space program, and the history of Mars exploration and what it will take to get there.

“What a stellar opportunity this grant is,” said Dr. Fiorella Terenzi, coordinator of the Space and Astronomy Lecture Series and a physics instructor at BCC in Cocoa. “As the host and event director of the BCC Space and Astronomy Lecture Series, it is my desire to educate, enlighten and enthrall because education empowers us. It is the most powerful springboard for opening our minds and our hearts and guiding us to a greater understanding and appreciation of the universe and our place in it. It is when we understand that we possess the power to act.”

Dr. Ethel Newman, provost for the BCC Cocoa campus, said, “Congratulations to Dr. Terenzi for receiving this award. The BCC Space and Astronomy Lecture Series will greatly benefit by being able to present internationally known speakers, and that is exciting.”

For more information about the Space and Astronomy Lectures, contact Dr. Dr. Terenzi at terenzif@brevardcc.edu. For details about the FHC grants, contact Susan Lockwood, grants director, at (727) 873-2011 or send an e-mail message to Lockwood at stockwood@flahum.org.

The upcoming Florida Humanities-sponsored Space and Astronomy Lectures will feature Pat Duggins, Dr. John Logsdon and Dr. Terenzi. These two lectures with a humanities focus will be part of the 2010-2011 Brevard Community College Space and Astronomy Series at the Astronaut Memorial Observatory and Planetarium in Cocoa.

Access for Floridians will be increased beyond the lecture audience through a YouTube posting of the interviews and a live Internet interview that will be archived.

- Duggins is news director at Alabama Public Radio. He has spent more than 20 years providing national coverage of the space program, including the development of NASA's next-generation spacecraft. His new book is “Trailblazing Mars: NASA's Next Giant Leap.”

- Dr. Logsdon became the Lindbergh Chair in Aerospace History at the National Air and Space Museum, Smithsonian Institution, in Washington, D.C., in 2008. Before that one-year appointment, he was on the faculty of the George Washington University for 38 years. He remains professor emeritus of political science and international affairs. Dr. Logsdon was the founder in 1987 and longtime director of the Space Policy Institute at George Washington University's Elliott School of International Affairs. He holds a bachelor degree in physics from Xavier University and a doctorate in political science from New York University.

- Dr. Terenzi is described by “Time” magazine as “a cross between Carl Sagan and Madonna.” Astrophysicist, author and recording artist, Terenzi received her doctorate in physics from the University of Milan, studied opera and composition at Conservatory G. Verdi, and taught mathematics and physics at Liceo Scientifico, Milan.

She is currently a full-time faculty member at Brevard Community College. Dr. Terenzi has lectured at University of California-San Diego, Stanford University, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the Smithsonian Institution, the American Museum of Natural History, and abroad.

Dr. Terenzi has combined science and art to “awaken people to the wonders of the universe.” She has produced a CD, “Music from the Galaxies”, and has authored a book, “Heavenly Knowledge.” For more information, visit www.fiorella.com, or amazon.com.
