

FLORIDA INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY
Department of History
SPRING 2006

LAH 5905: Readings in Latin American History
Citizen, Authority, State, Nation in Latin America

DM 370, Tuesdays 5:00-7:40 pm

Prof. Mark D. Szuchman

Course Website: <http://www.fiu.edu/~szuchman/palmnotabene06>

Office: ECS-458 -- Phone: 305.348.2864 -- e-mail: szuchman@fiu.edu

Office Hours: Tuesdays, 3:00-4:30 pm

Introduction

“Citizen, Authority, State, Nation in Latin America” is a reading seminar aimed at exploring the matrix of relationships between the peoples of Latin America and perceived icons of authority. The coverage will include the broad scope of the colonial and national periods. Emphasis will be given to the transition from the ancien régime to the modern nation-state. Case studies are drawn from Mexico, Peru, Argentina and Cuba. Among the topics covered are: competing notions of community, regionalism, bases for regal and popular authorities, shifting constitutionalisms, competing representations, the roles of race and ethnicity, the mystical nation, political consequences of economic projects, and the idea of justice.

The seminar contains special technological components designed to train students in methods of digital data entry and qualitative analysis. Students are required to use and master technology involving PC desktop software designed for academic research and writing (Nota Bene). Students are expected to use NB to enter all reading notes digitally, to update the notes dynamically in the course of in-seminar discussions, and to provide me the files on a weekly basis. For students who do not have laptops to bring to the meetings, the use of Palm PDAs and Palm keyboards will be facilitated (students are responsible for purchasing WordSmith, the needed word-processing software, which will easily interact with NB).

Attendance at four software training sessions is a mandatory component of the course. Software training will take place during the first four Saturdays of the semester from 9:00 am to noon in PC 322.

At the end of the semester, students who complete the course successfully—defined as receiving a “B” or better and no “Incomplete”—will receive their own licensed version of Nota Bene to keep and to continue using in their endeavors. The Palms and keyboards will be returned to me in perfect working order.

Preliminaries

General background in Latin American History. Students who do not have a general knowledge of Latin American history are strongly urged to read introductory surveys in preparation for the more discrete monographic readings in the seminar, which will thus be better contextualized. The following titles are recommended:

Burkholder, Mark A., and Lyman L. Johnson. Colonial Latin America. New York: Oxford University Press, 1990.

Burns, E. Bradford. Latin America: A Concise Interpretive History. Englewood Cliffs, N.J.: Prentice-Hall, 1986.

Voss, Stuart. Latin America in the Middle Period, 1750–1929. Wilmington, DE: Scholarly Resources, 2001.

Computers. You will need a Windows PC (Mac owners will need PC emulation software or hardware to run the Windows applications).

Course requirements (keys to success)

Humility. Above all else, you will need to be humble about your abilities to handle the amount of time and effort needed for the course, not because it is especially more onerous than other reading seminars in the Department, but because of the rich evidence for students’ underestimation, on the one hand, of how long it takes to do a good job of reading and understanding the material, and overestimation, on the other, of how effectively they manage their time to handle graduate-level obligations.

Hunger. You have to be hungry for new information, new modes of analysis, new modes of data gathering. You have to have thirst for accumulating literature, gathering titles, ordering their value and context. You have to have a sense of self-doubt, but as motivator, not inhibitor (“am I doing enough? have I followed the right leads? have I articulated arguments clearly? am I afraid to ask questions?”).

Software training/mastery. Four mandatory Saturday morning sessions are reserved for software training. Because the software component is a fundamental part of the course, this is not an optional matter. Software support will be available throughout the semester.

Notes. You will take notes on the weekly reading assignments. These notes will be “live” documents in the sense that you will be referring to them and refining them throughout the term and well beyond. The dynamic nature of your note-taking is a key element in their long-term usefulness. The notes will be given to me electronically at the end of each seminar meeting. You are free to exchange your notes with your classmates. You will receive training in the notes-taking component of the software and you will use it in your research and paper. Your notes form an essential component of my evaluation of your work.

Bibliography accumulation. You will have training in — and use of — database software designed to accumulate and manage bibliographies. While I will not be evaluating this aspect of your work, it will necessarily show in the required paper.

Discussions and participation. The scope and nature of your notes will, in part, determine the quality of your participation in seminar discussions. Each student will be expected to frame the class discussion of the readings at least once during the term. Students will be evaluated for the quality of their presentations, their notes and their overall participation during class meetings. Participation represents 50% of the grade.

Paper. A paper covering the review of the literature (a.k.a. state of the literature paper or historiographical paper) of 4500 to 5000 words in length. This syllabus lists several articles of this sort. Because there is nothing obvious or easily “teachable” about how to craft this type of paper, you are encouraged in the strongest manner to read a couple of them. We will also discuss during class how to go about writing the paper. The paper represents 50% of the grade. The topic of your paper will be approved by me.

Purchases. All readings are available in the Green Library either on the Reserve Desk or electronically. You may be required to purchase a software application if you do not have a laptop, WordSmith, which you will download from the Web at:

www.bluenomad.com

Modus operandi. The weekly seminar meetings will involve the following routine:

- Students are required to bring their digital notes on their weekly reading assignments taken either in their laptops with Nota Bene or with their Palms and the Palm keyboards, then transferred to their computers. There are no exceptions to this requirement, as the skills and practices in taking notes represent an essential component of the course.
- Students are required to bring their laptops or (Palms and keyboards) with their notes to every class meeting.
- Students may share their notes with seminar members (by beaming them) or as file attachments.
- Students will make oral presentations on their readings, and the process of discussions will, in turn, serve to add and refine notes in real-time, that is, as the discussions take place.
- Students will use Nota Bene and incorporate the notes into their individual Orbis textbases.
- Students will enter all bibliographic materials they come across in the course and in their reading assignments into Ibidem and build their electronic libraries.

REQUIRED PROCEDURES FOR NOTE-TAKING ON READINGS USING WORDSMITH ON THE PALM:

Your notes on the assigned readings represent an essential component of this course's instruction and learning process. Infrastructural issues beyond your own individual note-taking are, similarly, fundamental in the oversight and evaluation of your note-taking activities, and they require that you take simple but specific steps in initiating your activities. By following the steps below, you will achieve the following objectives:

- you will be credited with your note-taking for each title
- your file for each title will be correctly identified
- there will be a record of each week's note-taking

The steps in WordSmith are easy but you must follow them for each item in your reading assignment:

1. tap on New
2. in New Name: type—without any spaces—your last name and first initial, then the author's last name, followed by first significant word of the title; e.g., szuchmanmruiggierowives
3. in the body of the document, the first line must start with your last name, followed by your first name, then the word "week" and the number of the week listed in the syllabus for the item.
NOTE: The number of the week must be indicated by spelling it out, do not use numerical indicators. In subsequent lines, you will type the bibliographic item and your notes. For example,
Szuchman, Mark week four
Ruggiero, Kristin. "Wives on 'Deposit': Internment and the Preservation of Husbands' Honor in Late Nineteenth-Century Buenos Aires." Journal of Family History 17, no. 3 (1992):253-70.
4. make sure that you include text that is italicized or bolded or underlined.
5. save the document (you will be alerted that the document will be saved in WordSmith format, which is really RTF: agree to it).

That's all there is to it. You will then be able to bring your RTF documents taken in WordSmith to Nota Bene, where they will be indexed into the Orbis textbase (yours and mine).

KEY DATES:

- First day of class: Tue, Jan 10
- Software training sessions: Saturdays, January 14, 21, 28, February 4 (9:00 am - noon), PC 322
- Spring break: Mar 20-25
- Final class mtg: Tue., April 13
- Papers due: Tue., April 20

Topics and reading assignments

NOTE: Articles or chapters will be found through the FIU libraries' full-text retrieval mechanisms. Among these are JSTOR, PROJECT MUSE, and OCLC FIRST SEARCH. To retrieve the electronic versions of articles via the FIU library from a remote site, point your browser to the FIU Libraries, and then click on the link to "Connect from Home." Follow instructions to use the proxy server. Then follow the library navigation to get to the electronic journals, as appropriate.

Electronic access of some of the reading materials — whether through the libraries' electronic reserves, full-text retrieval sites, or through the course's web site — is occasionally provided in PDF format. To be able to view those files, you will use Adobe Acrobat Reader, which can be freely downloaded from:

<http://www.adobe.com/products/acrobat/readstep2.html>

Week/Date/Theme

1. Jan. 10: Introduction

1a. Jan 14, 9-12: software training PC 322

2. Jan. 17: Natural law, community, corporation, contested citizenry; continuities:

Brading, David A. The First America: The Spanish Monarchy, Creole Patriots, and the Liberal State, 1492–1867. New York: Cambridge University Press, 1991. Chapters 2, 6, 9, 10, 24-29.

Adelman, Jeremy. "Introduction: The Problem of Persistence in Latin American History." In Colonial Legacies: The Problem of Persistence in Latin American History, edited by Jeremy Adelman, 1-13. New York: Routledge, 1999.

Chiaromonte, José Carlos. "Fundamentos iusnaturalistas de los movimientos de independencia." Boletín del Instituto de Historia Argentina "Dr. Emilio Ravignani" Tercera serie, no. 22 (2do semestre 2000): 33–71. F2801 .B96 and course website or

Chiaromonte, José Carlos. "The Principle of Consent in Latin and Anglo-American Independence." Journal of Latin American Studies 36, no. part 3 (August 2004): 563–86.

Richard M. Morse, "Toward a Theory of Spanish American Government," Journal of the History of Ideas 15, no. 1 (January 1954): 71-93.

2a. Jan 21, 9-12: software training PC 322

3. Jan. 24: Identities; affinities; communities I:

Eric Van Young, The Other Rebellion: Popular Violence, Ideology, and the Mexican Struggle for Independence, 1810–1821 (Stanford: University Press, 2001).

3a. Jan 28, 9-12: software training, PC 322

4. Jan. 31: Identities; affinities; communities II:

Caplan, Karen D. "The Legal Revolution in Town Politics: Oaxaca and Yucatán, 1812–1825." Hispanic American Historical Review 83, no. 2 (May 2003): 255–93.

Grandin, Greg. "A More Onerous Citizenship: Illness, Race, and Nation in Republican Guatemala." In Reclaiming the Political in Latin American History: Essays from the North, edited by Gilbert M. Joseph, 205–30. Durham: Duke University Press, 2001.

Hingson, Jesse. "Savages into Citizens: Families, Political Purge and Remission in Early Republican Córdoba, Argentina." Unpublished dissertation. Miami: Florida International University, 2003.

4a. Feb. 4, 9-12: software training, PC 322

5. Feb 7: Regions:

Hamnett, Brian R. Roots of Insurgency: Mexican Regions, 1750–1824. Cambridge, Eng.: Cambridge University Press, 1986.

6. Feb. 14: The State: Ancien Régime and Modernity

Garavaglia, Juan Carlos. "La apoteosis del Leviathán: El estado en Buenos Aires en la primera mitad del siglo XIX." Latin American Research Review 38, no. 1 (February 2003): 135–68.

Earle, Rebecca A. Spain and the Independence of Colombia, 1810–1825. Exeter: University of Exeter Press, 2000.

Chiaramonte, José Carlos. Ciudades, provincias, Estados: Orígenes de la Nación Argentina (1800–1846). Buenos Aires: Ariel, 1997. Documentos: 1, 2, 8, 15, 18, 28–32, 43, 56, 64–65, 66a–d.

7. Feb. 21: The propertied and the humble

Warren, Richard A. Vagrants and Citizens: Politics and the Masses in Mexico City from Colony to Republic. Wilmington, DE: Scholarly Resources, 2001.

Piccato, Pablo. City of Suspects: Crime in Mexico City, 1900–1931. Durham: Duke University Press, 2001.

8. Feb. 28: Looking in, looking far

Gootenberg, Paul. Between Silver and Guano: Commercial Policy and the State in Postindependence Peru. Princeton: University Press, 1989.

Turner, Mark. From Two Republics to One Divided: Contradictions of Postcolonial Nationmaking in Andean Peru. Durham; London: Duke University Press, 1997.

Mark D. Szuchman, "Imagining the State, Building the Nation: The Case of Nineteenth-Century Argentina," History Compass 4 (2006): 1–34. [course website]

9. Mar. 7: The Tentative State

Fuente, Ariel de la. Children of Facundo: Caudillo and Gaucho Insurgency During the Argentine State-Formation Process (La Rioja, 1853–1870). Durham: Duke University Press, 2000.

Szuchman, Mark D. Order, Family, and Community in Buenos Aires, 1810–1860. Stanford: University Press, 1988.

10. Mar. 14: Politicians

Sábato, Hilda. The Many and the Few: Political Participation in Republican Buenos Aires. Stanford: University Press, 2001.

Rock, David. State Building and Political Movements in Argentina, 1860–1916. Stanford: University Press, 2002.

11. Mar. 21: The Mystical Nation

Earle, Rebecca. "'Padres de la Patria' and the Ancestral Past: Commemorations of Independence in Nineteenth-Century Spanish America." Journal of Latin American Studies 34, no. pt. 4 (2002): 771–803.

Delaney, Jean H. "Imagining El Ser Argentino: Cultural Nationalism and Romantic Concepts of Nationhood in Early Twentieth-Century Argentina." Journal of Latin American Studies 34, no. part 3 (August 2002): 625–58.

Ferrer, Ada. Insurgent Cuba: Race, Nation, and Revolution, 1868–1898. Chapel Hill: University of North Carolina Press, 1999.

Quijada, Mónica. “Imaginando la homogeneidad: la alquimia de la tierra,” in Homogeneidad y nación con un estudio de caso: Argentina, siglos XIX y XX, ed. and comp. Mónica Quijada, Carmen Bernand, and Arnd Schneider (Madrid: CSIC, 2000). [course website]

12. Mar. 28: SRING BREAK

13. Apr. 4: Whose nation?

Karush, Matthew B. Workers or Citizens: Democracy and Identity in Rosario, Argentina (1912–1930). Albuquerque: University of New Mexico Press, 2002.

Klubbock, Thomas Miller. “Nationalism, Race, and the Politics of Imperialism: Workers and North American Capital in the Chilean Copper Industry.” In Reclaiming the Political in Latin American History: Essays from the North, edited by Gilbert M. Joseph, 231–67. Durham: Duke University Press, 2001.

14. Apr. 11: PRESENTATIONS I

15. Apr. 18: PRESENTATIONS II; FINAL CLASS MEETING

16. Apr. 25: PAPERS DUE (no later than 5:00 pm)

Recommended Reading
(works of a historiographical nature / examples of state-of-lit reviews)

Bonnell, Victoria E. “The Uses of Theory, Concepts and Comparison in Historical Sociology.” Comparative Studies in Society and History 22, no. 2 (1980): 156-73.

Campbell, Leon G. “Recent Research on Andean Peasant Revolts, 1750-1820.” Latin American Research Review XIV, no. 1 (1979): 3-50.

Chasteen, John Charles. “Fighting Words: The Discourse of Insurgency in Latin American History.” Latin American Research Review 28, no. 3 (1993): 83-111.

Collier, Simon. “The Historiography of the Portalian Period (1830-1891) in Chile.” Hispanic American Historical Review 57 (November 1977): 660-90.

Gelman, Jorge, and María Inés Schroeder. “Juan Manuel de Rosas contra los estancieros: Los embargos a los ‘unitarios’ de la campaña de Buenos Aires.” Hispanic American Historical Review 82, no. 3 (August 2003): 487-520.

Hunt, Lynn. “Charles Tilly’s Collective Action.” In Vision and Method in Historical Sociology, edited by Theda Skocpol, 244-75. Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, 1984.

Kuznesof, Elizabeth A., and Robert Oppenheimer. “The Family and Society in Nineteenth-Century Latin America: An Historiographical Introduction.” Journal of Family History 10 (Fall 1985): 215-34.

Scott, Joan Wallach. “Gender: A Useful Category of Historical Analysis.” American Historical Review 91, no. 5 (December 1986): 1053-75.

Skocpol, Theda, ed. Vision and Method in Historical Sociology. Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, 1984.

Trimberger, Ellen Kay. “E. P. Thompson: Understanding the Process of History.” In Vision and Method in Historical Sociology, edited by Theda Skocpol, 211-43. Cambridge, England: Cambridge University Press, 1984.

Van Young, Eric. “Recent Anglophone Scholarship on Mexico and Central America in the Age of Revolution (1750-1850).” Hispanic American Historical Review 65, no. 4 (November 1985): 725-44.

Weinstein, Barbara. “The Decline of the Progressive Planter and the Rise of Subaltern Agency: Shifting Narratives of Slave Emancipation in Brazil.” In Reclaiming the Political in Latin American History: Essays from the North, edited by Gilbert M. Joseph, 81-101. Durham: Duke University Press, 2001.

